Ocean Recovery Alliance (ORA)

ORA is a registered charitable organization in Hong Kong. The focus of ORA is to bring together new ways of thinking, technologies, creativity and collaborations in order to introduce innovative projects and initiatives that will help improve our ocean environment.

Some of Ocean Recovery Alliance's projects include the "Grate Art" program. This just received approval from the government for the installation of ceramic plaques on the streets of the Southern District to remind people not to dump into storm drains, as they drain to the sea.

They have also written a play for children around the world to remember to recycle and use better waste management. "Uncle Roo - the Recycling Rooster" reminds children to recycle using "Eco-Repetition" via the daily sound of the rooster. Their Global Alert platform/app allows you to report on trash hotspots anywhere in the world's waterways and coastlines.

While being watersports lovers in Hong Kong takes advantage of the breath-taking coastline, we hope to contribute in protecting the ocean. Please visit <http://www.oceanrecov.org/> for more information about their work.
